

Dovetail provides market ready payments and liquidity management solutions that deliver business agility. These solutions enable banks to differentiate their payments offerings, optimize their liquidity and to provide their customers with a more consistent, efficient and effective payments experience.

The solutions are scalable, up and down, across functional and volume needs and offer a high level of personalization. Significantly, they are based on a single architecture that leverages common investment for the whole Dovetail community.

Dovetail's solutions, processes and people enable banks globally to achieve a measurable return on investment, cost control and regulatory compliance, while at the same time address legacy technology challenges.

Dovetail's European headquarters are based in London, corporate headquarters in Ireland; an Americas headquarters and Secure Development Center in New Jersey; Delivery Centers of Excellence in Milan and Toronto; and a regional office in Singapore.
