

Orwell is a London based financial services group delivering breakthrough services that represent a transformational change to the way individuals, businesses, public sector organisations and other financial institutions manage cash and payment transactions.

We use technology as a means to create change and to enable new business models for banking services.

Orwell offers its services directly to end customers under the ipagoo® brand and to credit institutions and electronic money institutions via white label agreements.

Our key markets are in Europe, although Orwell has been active in the APAC region as we see the same opportunities for growth there as we do in Europe.

We have offices in the UK, Italy, France, Spain, and New Zealand.
